What's New in the Multi PDF Merger?

Multi PDF Merger is the best Free PDF Converter you can find for all your PDF file conversion needs. It can help you convert PDF to PDF, DOC, HTML, RTF, TXT, EPUB, MS Word and...Q: Is it possible to change input value using a variable? I am trying to change my input text value based on what text box is selected. If the first text box is selected then the second value is entered. The second text box is filled with the results of a calculation. I have got the following code which seems to work but I don't understand the logic behind it, will it run infinitely? November December var year1 = document.getElementsByName("year1").value; var year2 = document.getElementsByName("year2").value; function calculateCalculation(){ document.getElementsByName("year2").value = Math.round(((year1*1.23*1.52)*12.2)/100); } A: Yes, this will run infinitely because there is no way for the "evaluate" function to stop running. What you can do, is have a scope on the input element so that the calculation is handled on each input element specifically. var year1 = document.getElementsByName("year1").value; var year2 = document.getElementsByName("year2").value; var input1 = document.getElementsByName("year1"); var input2 = document.getElementsByName("year2"); function calculateCalculation(){ input2.value = Math.round(((year1*1.23*1.52)*12.2)/100); } November December
